

Link digest

April 1, 2011

Subscribe to the Century editors' link blogging by feed.

How not to silence Elizabeth Johnson.

Fr. Roy Bourgeois faces 'laicization': Hero or heretic?

What might Oscar Romero say to the U.S. president today?

This fasting thing is really catching on.

Dopiest constitutional amendment of all time?

So long to Bob Herbert's column.

Tea Partiers are paving the way for more federal control over health care, not less.

The difference between anti-deficit and anti-government.

Ohio's anti-union law is tougher than Wisconsin's.

Sigh. Vouchers still don't work, Mr. Speaker.

Wes Granberg-Michaelson--who has one of the more interesting faith-and-politics resumes around--offers his qualified support for U.S. action in Libya.

Why the District of Columbia still lacks voting rights.

A birtherism lexicon.

Population and diversity at a glance.

The Onion can still pull off sharp cultural critique with just a headline.