

Navigating the fullness of God's calling

By Carol Howard Merritt

March 30, 2012

“Well. The good news is that you did well on your tests. Your grades are way above what we require. Your IQ is very high,” the advisor began.

“Oh great,” I sat back in relief. I went to Moody Bible Institute in the hopes of getting into their Mission Aviation program. After months of orientation and testing, I was finally receiving the verdict of whether I was accepted.

“BUT,” she said, trying to catch up with herself. “The Board rejected your application.”

“Really? Why?”

(Continue reading here at Ed Cyzewski's place, where I'm guest blogging for his Women in Ministry series...)