

Friday digest

September 6, 2013

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Deborah Smith Douglas reviews Judith Valente: "The transformed color of glass is an apt metaphor for Valente's transformation by the light of the Gospels and the lives of Benedictine sisters." (subscription required)
- Richard Kauffman on reading scripture in worship
- David Henson on "Bible poverty"
- Two sonnets by Anthony Opal

In the news:

- Breakaway parish mulls joining the Episcopalians
- Pope Francis, the 'cold-call pope', reaches out and touches a lot of people
- Gay rights vs. religious rights: 7 issues to watch
- Southern Baptists say no to gay weddings for military chaplains
- NALT alliance says Not All \(Christians are\) Like That on homosexuality