

Episode 85: Love, Actually

December 16, 2020

Sunday Morning Matinee · 85 - Love Actually

On this week's show, Adam and Matt are joined by Becca Messman, pastor of Trinity Presbyterian Church in Herndon, VA, to talk about the rise and fall of the movie Love, Actually. Released in 2003, Love, Actually had a run as a feel-good Christmas movie before it began to evaporate into the ether. This episode sorts through the craziness of the movie and tries to find some redeeming qualities that could bring some Christmas cheer. The conversation then turns to the lectionary passages for December 20th and how Love, Actually might help make sense of them. It's a crazy task, but hey, those are the terms of the show. The show concludes with some talk about theaters and theater. So grab some egg nog and come along for a wild

Christmas ride.
