Blessings

7th Blessing

O to be an earth-mover making rough places plain to prepare the way to be like sandpaper smoothing drywall like gentle waves on the shore erasing the imprints of a sandpiper like soothing sounds from the choir stall or a mourning dove or the voice of the one who calms the sea or like the glove scooping up that ground ball or a healing balm to those in need to feed the hungry to spread good seed to kneel in aid of those who fall to build a bridge over a raging river to devise a surprisingly accepted plan that isn't blocked by protocol to wisely iron wrinkles out to be peacemakers & to be the children listening for the call

8th Blessing

This then is the blessing no one wants to be misunderstood or mistreated by those mistaking you for a miscreant to suffer misfortune & the taunts of the misinformed who imagine it good to bring insults against you the blessing of missed blessings which are anything but if they misdirect you from the central thing

This is the blessing to see beyond blessings to the blessing of being intimately known & intimately knowing
